THE JAPS LAND

Enormous military activity continues, but the government carefully conceals its plans and does not indicate the date of any projected movement. Although every moment of dday enables the Russians to become hetter propared for the ecuffict, the Japanese apparently are uncencerned and confident. They fully realize that the limited capacity of the Trans Siberian Railway, the distance of the Russians from their bare of supplies and the lack of communication by sea, sets limitation on the proposed accomplishments of Russia in Manchuria and Siberia. They tool that no danger attaches in that quarter, and are awaiting the completion of Japan's naval programme.

There seems to be lack of positive information on this subject, and until the facts are known the Saac Department is inclined to go slow in making representations to Russia. It is bound to do so, however, if Japan formally requests it, as the Department has undertaken to represent Japan so far as the interess of Japanese subjects in Russia are concerned.

Three Hundred Thousand Men Mobilized and Reserves in Plenty.

(By Associated Press.)

EHANGHAI. Feb. 15.—Advices from Nagasaki, dated Friday, February 12th, state that absolute relicence is maintained by the government. An intense war feeling prevails among all classes, sithough there is an apparent absence of excitement. Among the striking features of the situation are the strict censorship which is exercised over all cablegrams and the close concealment of military and naval movements.

The mobilization of the Japanese army has been carried out methodically. It is estimated that 200,000 iroops are now ready to be placed in the field without impairing the national deferses. The movements of the troops are surrounded by secrecy. They are being moved at night toward their bases at Sasebo, Kuremiji and Yokusuka, and the lighis of ordinary trains are extinguished when in the neighborhood of troop trains. Members of the reserve force immediately step into the places of the outgoing regulars. Their organization is perfect, and a full equipment is ready for each one of the reserves. Hundreds of hotels, tea houses and temples have been requisitioned in Tokio and other div sional centers. All the steamers of Japanese merchant lines are being rapidly converted into auxiliary crusers, armod with quick firing guns

Another Court Day.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Feb. 15.—
The citizens of Albemarie county will have another court day. The first term of the Circuit Court, having been in session for a period exceeding six days, Judge John M. White has ordered that a recess be taken until the first Monday in March.

Academy and Bljou ordering the men or report at the armory for duty. Some who were there with ladies had to hurry home and then back to the armory, where they donned their uniforms and made ready for departure. Despite the ahort notice, the ranks were full before the hour of departure, the men, with few exceptions, being ready and eager to go. The seven companies from this to go. The seven companies from this city took no band, but were accompanied by the drummers and buglers only, a coips of eight men.

The armory presented a busy scene from shortly after 9 until 11 o'clock, when the various companies of the regiment were drawn up before the commanding colonel ready for the march for the Byrd Street Station, where a special train of seven coaches and a hagginge car was awaiting them. The men were all in heavy marching order, with overcoats, service hats, ponchos, can-

Colonel Anderson's Instructions.

Colonel Anderson's Instructions. When the battallon of the Seventleth Regiment had been drawn up in the armory, Colonel Anderson stepped forward and addressed the men, delivering to them their orders and instructions. In doing this he made the men a brief spreech, in which they were informed that they were ordered by the Governor to escert a prisoner to Roanoke and guard him while there undergoing trial for a heinous crime. They were not ordered there, he said, to guard a prisoner primarily, but in maintain the majesty and dignity of the law, and to preserve order at all hazards. They were there by order of the Governor, the commander-inchief of the militia, to discharge a serious and solemn duty, and they were not guardians of any one man, but the repous and solemn duty, and they were not guardians of any one man, but the representatives of the law, its guardians and protectors. He counseled them to remember these facts and to be obedient to the orders of their superiors and to conduct themselves as became soldiers in the discharge of their duty.

conduct themselves as became solders in the discharge of their duty.

When the Colonei had concluded the order to shoulder arms was given, and, headed by the drum and bugle corps, the company, in successive order, and marching in column of fours, proceeded out of the drill room and down the stairs and into Seventh Street, where the line and into Seventh Street, where the line of march was formed. Down Seventh into Broad Street, at a column left, and thence to the fall, where the prisoner to be tried was, and thence to the Seventh to be tried was, and thence to the Seventh Street station of the Atlantic Coast Line the troops proceeded, and, augmented by the two companies of the Blues, they debarked in the special train of seven coaches, with baggage car, for the two hundred mile night ride for Beauches. for Roanoke.

There was no unnecessary noise or display. The men had gathered at the armory so quietly that one might have supposed that it was merely for a battalion dress parade. Their march was unstendations. The men were out for business, and there was no occasion for pomp or display.

Nearly Three Hundred Men.

While no count was made of the men, the average was about forty men to a company, making about 275 men from this city. The troops all carried the new United States magazine rifle, their first service with the new modified Krag magazine. This is the weapon with which the United States troops are armed. Its magazine cannelly is seven carridges of the United States troops are armed. Its magazine capacity is seven carridges, of the .30 calibre type, with steel noses. They are terrific weapons, fully equal to the Mauser in penetrating power, yet making a clean wound without the gaping hurt inflicted by the soft nosed bullet. Each man was armed with more than sufficient rounds of carridges for any use they are even remotely likely to any use they are even remotely likely to

It was 12:37 when the special ran out from this city. It will be delayed along the line at various points, taking on troops and additional coaches. Allowing for the delays and the waits en route, it will be 7:30 before the troops will pull into Roanoke and deliver their prisoner te the custody of the court, before which he must stand trial for his life. The troops carried their commissary supplies with them, but will be quartered in buildings there instead of going into camp. They are well fixed for comfort and hardly expect more on the journey.

Trial Will be Brief.

It is hardly likely that the trial will take more than two or three hours. The usual forms will be gone through with without the usual delays and the testimony will consume but a short time. The testimony of the prosecutrix will be taken testimony of the prosecutrix will be taken privately for the first time, a new statute providing such procedure in such cases having been enacted yesterday. The securing of a jury is the only feature of the trial likely to consume much time. If no difficulty be secured in this (and presumably it will have been attended to be. fore the arrival of the prisoner), the trial fore the arrival of the prisoner), the tilal will be concluded with the least possible delay, compatible with the requirements of the law and the Constitution. A verdict will be rendered in a few minutes, that verdict will be one of guilty with a recommendation of the extreme penalty death by hanging. The prisoner will then be sentenced to die. Under the previsions of the law ten percentaged. of the law, teh negro cannot be executed of the law, teh nerro rannot be executed until thirty days after sentence. After condemnation he will be brought back under excert of troops and lodged in the city jail at Lynchburg.

There is every reason to anticipate that the presence of the military in such force will prevent, any demonstration whatever, and their stay in the Magic City will be as uneventful as the stay of large bodies of men in a strange town can be.

Utless unforeseen delay should occur in securing a jury the military will not be in Roanoke over night, but will be on their way back before sundown. If the troops and the misoner had to be kept and their stay in the Magic City troops and the prisoner had to be kept in Boanoke over night, there is a possi-bility of a demonstration, but in daylight there is no reason to anticipate any exbility of a demonstration, but in daylight in the is no reason to anticipate any excitement.

SWAMP-ROOT SAVED MY LIFE.

April 9th, 1903. Marsh Illil, 18.

There comes a time to both men and women when sickness and poor health bring anxiety and trouble hard to bear; disappointment seems to follow every effort of physicians in our behalf, and remedles we try have little or no effect. In many such cases serious mistakes are made in doctoring, and not knowing what the disease is or what makes us sick. Kind nature warns us by certain symptoms, which are unmistakable evidence of danger, such as too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, scalding irritation, pain or dull ache in the back—they tell us in silence that our kidneys need doctoring. If neglected
